Baldwin High School • Pittsburgh 36, Pa.

Foreword

This year at Baldwin High has climaxed all the years that have gone before, being filled with tears and despair, laughter and elation. We will remember the noisy pep rallies, especially the one with the imported hula dancers . . . the football and basketball games we so faithfully attended to cheer our teams to victory . . . the get-together dances afterward . . . nine weeks' tests (when they came up, grades went down) . . . impressing the visiting students who came to participate in the District Band Concert . . . the anticipation of the arrival of our pictures, and how we rushed to exchange with everyone. We will part and perhaps never meet to shake hands and smile, but we will see each other in the memories and cherished moments which are contained in this, The Balthei, '59.

Faculty

Lamps of knowledge to light our way.

Change is the most consistent factor of life.

For these past few years both you and we have been changing rapidly, drawing on the experiences of our pasts and the wisdom of those with whom we live and labor. As you have matured, so have we.

At Baldwin we have been fortunate to have adequate facilities for your education and by your labors here, we have learned more fully the ways and means to better education. The process was not at all a one-way street and the students yet to come will benefit by your experience. You now go on in life, taking a part of us with you as we retain a part of each of you in our hearts.

Congratulations, and may your life ahead bring you success, understanding, and contentment.

R. D. Snouffer

Mr. J. Ernest Harrison

Mr. Harrison, who was busy with courses of study and resource units, is capably filling the newly created Office of Curriculum Co-ordinator.

W. Robert Paynter

To the Class of 1959:

Yours is a marvelous heritage! With every new discovery, in no matter what field of endeavor, there have opened new vistas, each more magnificent than the last. Whether it be in medicine, science, the arts, the humanities,—any of these offers a challenge to him who would be daring and ambitious enough to accept it.

Congratulations for that which you have already attained. May success crown your efforts and the world be a better place for all mankind because there was a Class of 1959 of whom we could all be proud.

WILBERT C. BRANDTONIES

Principal

Seniors, it is now time to say farewell. You have completed your high school training and you are now going to enter a new phase of your life. Your teachers have given you the benefit of their knowledge, experience, and training in order to prepare you for citizenship so that you may take your rightful place in society. I hope that your high school educational experiences will help you to solve some of the many problems that you will have during your life time.

The administration and the faculty wish you the best of everything that is to be enjoyed in a rich, full life.

W. C. Brandtonies

The secretaries have their fingers on the pulse of the school.

Carol Simmons, Janice Leech, Kay Vaglia.

ELMER J. McGIBBENY
Assitant Principal

Much of the planning relative to school organization is done during vacation months when informal attire is in vogue.

Mr. McGibbeny, Mr. Brandtonies

As Graduates, you have come to the time in life when you must assume the responsibilities for which you have been preparing for twelve years. In order to meet these responsibilities, you should ask yourselves three questions: Where am I going? How do I plan to get there? What are my chances of achieving the goals I have set? Your success in answering these questions will determine your success in life, but if you approach each with enthusiasm, love for your fellow man, and ambition tempered with meekness, the battle is half won.

May I extend my sincere congratulations. May best wishes go with each of you.

Elmer J. McGibbeny

Guidance

Miss Elizabeth P. Pensom, Kathy
Nord, Carol King, Mrs. Margery M. Enlow

We sent letters—stacks and stacks of letters.

Mr. Stanley A. Zingle, Marlene
Bonetti

"Careful now!"

Throughout this year at Baldwin High School we have been faced with many problems which we could not solve ourselves. Eventually our footsteps led us to the offices of the guidance department. Here the girls received helpful suggestions behind the door marked Mrs. Enlow or the one marked Miss Pensom, while the fellows received friendly advice in the offices of Mr. Klein and Mr. Zingle.

Language

Understanding people of other countries and being able to communicate with them has become very instrumental in our lives. Latin, the basis of all the romance languages, was taught to the freshman by Mr. Colanero and Mrs. Allison, while Miss Rackley and Mr. Bozic coached the sophomores and juniors.

The more modern language, Spanish, was taught by Mr. Jesko and Mr. Trujillo, who also taught the ever beautiful French. The study of foreign languages helped give the students of Baldwin a closer relationship with the people of other nations.

Mr. William J. Jesko, Anna Marie Bird, Mr. Joseph Trujillo

Hablo, hablas, habla . . .

Mrs. Jennie F. Halapatz, Mr. Paul C. Fleischauer

"Oh! What's my combination?"

English is perhaps the most important of all our subjects. Communicating with others is the mainstay of life. In ninth grade Miss Bode, Miss Bozic, and Mrs. Caldwell led us through the complicated maze of diagraming sentences and introduced us to the adventures of David Copperfield. Mr. Burke, Mr. Campbell, and Mr. Niederlander drilled us on parts of speech and unfolded the wonders of Silas Marner's life, in the tenth grade. Eleventh grade was full of grammar and the works of our own American authors stressed by Mr. Fleischauer, Mr. Greiner, and Mrs. Halapatz.

"Yes-s-s?"

When we finally reached twelfth grade Mrs. Daley, Mrs. Perrine, and Miss Smith assigned never ending themes between digging into the works of Shakespeare, Chaucer and many other English authors. Some students also took speech from Mr. Butler and learned the essentials of speaking and other valuable subjects. All of these courses gave us a solid background in the English that we will use all our lives.

Social Studies

Miss Barbara McCorkle, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Jenkins, Lee Logan

"What's your excuse this time?"

Mr. Floyd D. Magness, Mr. John Thomas, Mr. Frank Halen

"May I interrupt?"

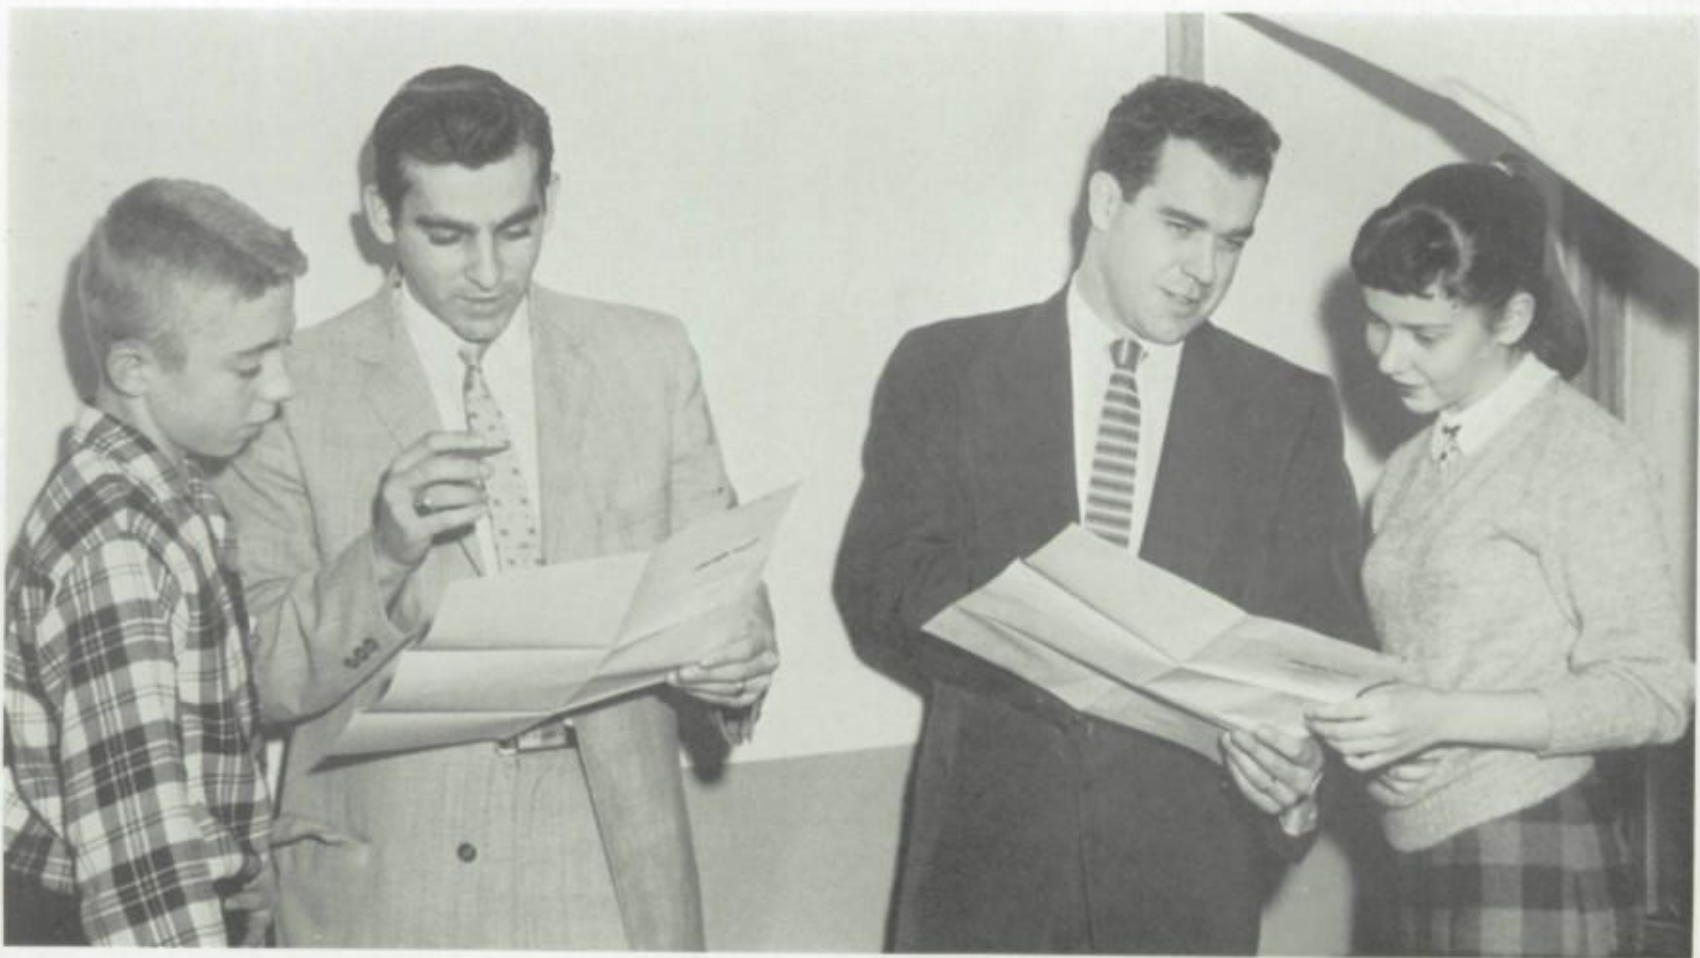

"We learn by our mistakes, or the mistakes of others." Our social studies teachers tried to show us these errors so that we, the future caretakers of America, will not make the same mistakes our ancestors made. In the freshmen classes Mr. Fazio, Mr. Garber, and Mr. Hilko tried to show the ninth graders the mistakes made by Pennsylvanians in the building of our state. Mr. Colesberry and Mr. McCormick tried to point out to their sophomore students in their American History course the fallacies previously made by our forefathers during the formation of this great nation of ours. From the beginning of civilization people have made many mistakes which were brought out to the juniors in the World History courses taught by Mr. Halen, Mr. Bruni, Mr. Magness, and Mr. Thomas, a student teacher.

The seniors discussed the situation of our government in present times and tried to apply the mistakes they had learned about previously to present day situations. Mr. Zavacky, Mr. Gillooly, and Miss McCorkle, who was under the direction of Mrs. Jenkins, guided the seniors through their last year of social studies. Through our history courses, we are better prepared to take our place as well educated adults. As we leave Baldwin High School, we are now able to study and evaluate the daily events of the world.

The "beep, beep" of Sputnik has awakened all of America to the value of science. The freshmen took advantage of the new interest in science through a general science course under the direction of Mr. Klein, Mr. Friday, and Miss Schafer.

Sophomores investigated the wonders of biology through studying and dissecting specimens. Mrs. Gibbon, Mr. Banky, Mr. Gordon, and Mr. DiGiulio guided the students' talents in these fields.

Both juniors and seniors participated in chemistry class this year. Since they had the advantages of new equipment and double lab periods, the students felt that they had a very good background in the field. Under the direction of Mr. Frantz, Mr. Kelly, Mr. Jaklich, Mr. Dickinson, and Mr. Crawford, they developed a working knowledge in the field of chemistry. Mr. Bartos taught one physics class as well as chemistry. This year Baldwin instilled in us the value of science.

Marie Fera, Mr. John W. Cook, Mr. Nicholas Huslak

Math, the true stimulus of the mind, is provided in varying degrees of difficulty for the students at Baldwin. Freshmen academic students were offered Algebra I, taught by Mr. Shumaker, Mrs. Elkin, and Mr. Wagner. This year, for the first time, sophomores along with juniors were offered Algebra II, and next year's juniors will take plane geometry. Sophomore and junior algebra teachers include Miss Kirkland, Mr. James, Mr. Cook, and Mr. Chapman.

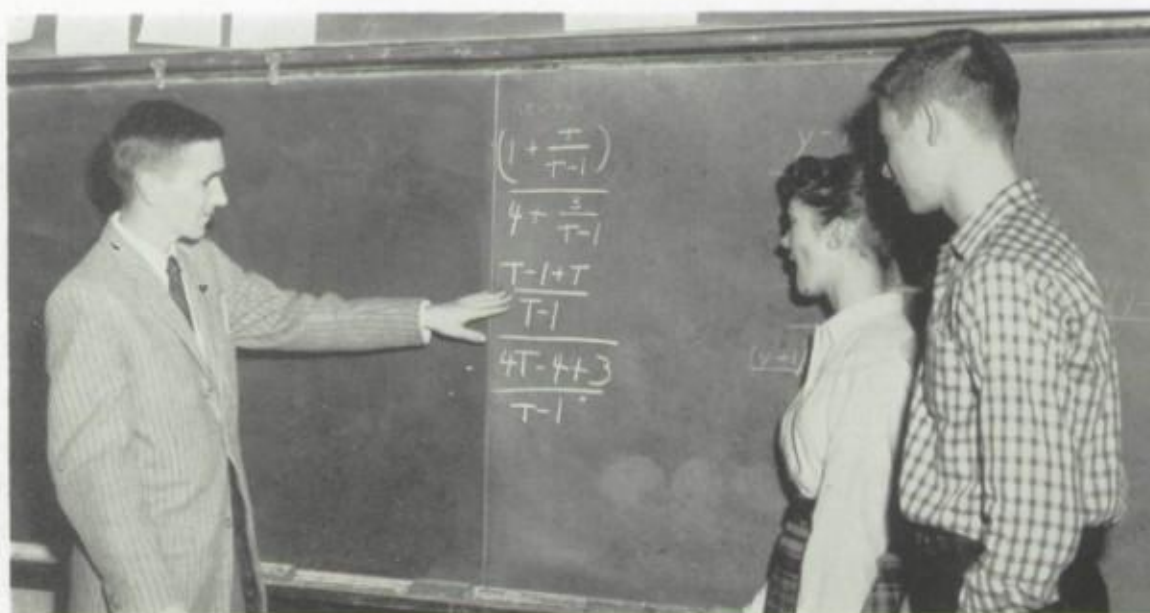

The academic seniors were taught trigonometry by Mr. Huslak. Offered by Mr. Neuhard to general and commercial students was a math course designed for application to on-the-job problems.

Home Economics

Miss Anita Malone, Bev Wolber, Judy Slagle, Diane Wallace

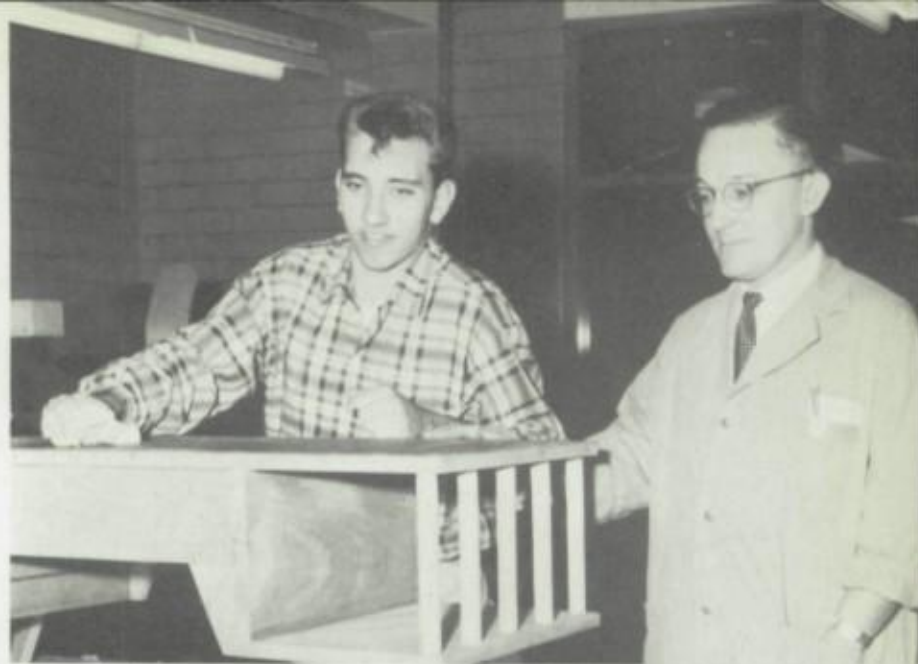

The Home Economics Department moved into new well-furnished classrooms this year. One room was devoted to several kitchen units. Each was complete with modern appliances where the students, under the competent direction of Miss Harris and Miss Malone, learned the basis of planning well-balanced meals. In the other room, there were modern sewing machines, triple mirrors, and plenty of cupboard space. Here students were taught the art of sewing. Between these two rooms was a living room where the girls gathered before class to discuss the topics of the day. All the knowledge accumulated in the Home Economics courses this year will satisfy the needs of each girl as a future mother and housewife.

Radiating from the shops were the buzzing of saws and the blows of hammers as our prospective architects, printers, and carpenters displayed their varied skills. Inside, Mr. Sullivan directed the wood shop while Mr. Stone supervised the work in the metal shop. Overseeing the printing press was Mr. Robbins. In the mechanical drawing classes, students worked over their drafting boards constructing plans under the able assistance of Mr. Waterman and Mr. Keller. Although each shop differed in sound and sight from the others, they were all helping to prepare Baldwin's students for the future.

Mr. George Michael

Preparing the students for the business world was the job of our business education department. Mrs. Berkoben and Mr. Michael taught Typing I to beginning commercial students and some academic students. Instructing the students in shorthand and Typing II were Miss Conte and Mrs. Magness. In completing their business education, the girls, under the direction of Miss Rust, were taught transcription. Because of them the most competent clerical workers will graduate from Baldwin this year.

Library & Reading

Our library, under the able supervision of Miss Minetti and Mrs. Shea, has aided us greatly. It is well equipped with visual aid rooms and reference and fiction books in twenty-three sections, ranging from science to romance. Our larger library provides room for an average of a thousand new books.

Speed reading for college preparatory students and reading improvement for English students were the courses offered by Mrs. Corbett. The tachistoscope, which widens the eye span, the reading accelerator, and other machines were an aid in her classes.

Through the efforts of Mr. McIlroy, band director, Mr. Scandrol, teacher of the ninth grade vocal department, and Mr. Shalley, senior high vocal instructor, the Highlander music department has done much to focus the eyes of the community on Baldwin High School. These instructors, by hard work and careful guidance, have helped our students to become well-behaved citizens who appreciate the fine arts.

Art

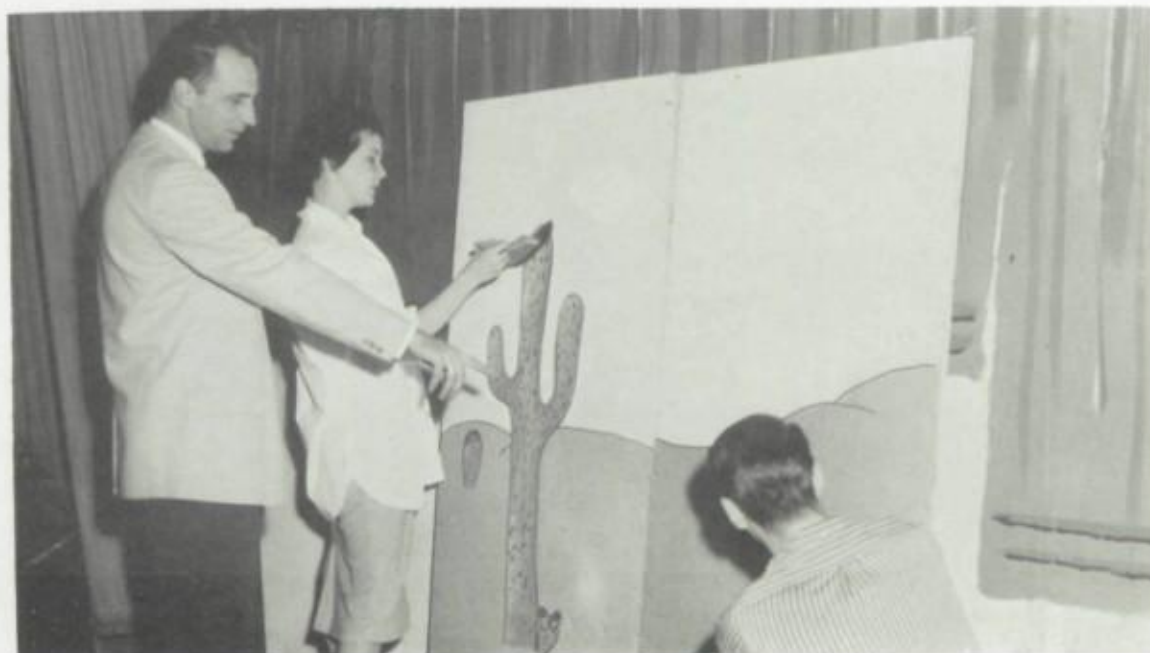

A visit to an art class was always an interesting experience. There one could see the students making full use of the facilities provided for enameling, leather carving, oil work, architectural design, and sculpturing. Under the capable guidance of Mr. Henkowsky, who also devoted many hours of work to planning decorations and working faithfully with the Stage Crew and Art Club, many beautiful and unique creations emerged from this force of toiling imaginations.

On the Freshman level, those interested in art had the ready-and-willing assistance of Mrs. Neuhard, who, by covering the fundamental techniques and rules of the subjects, hoped to prepare her students for the advanced course.

Baldwinites have good reason to be proud of their fine health and driving education departments.

Health and Driving Education

Coupled with four excellent gym instructors, Baldwin's new gymnasium has given the students the best possible facilities for physical education. Movable partitions divided the gym into three separate "classrooms." During the winter months, all three sections were used by the teachers for their gym classes. The girls' gym instructors, Miss Mullin and Miss Watt, taught square dancing and the girls' form of basketball, while Mr. Crevar and Mr. Karpa let the boys use their sections for basketball games.

The gym formed one of the area's largest basketball courts without the partitions. Its seating capacity was 1500 people.

Much credit should be given to the cafeteria staff of Baldwin High School who did their best to give us tasty and filling lunches. They arrived early in the morning and, under the direction of Mrs. Josephine Durbin, Baldwin-Whitehall School District's dietitian, served plate lunches, sandwiches, soup, and various desserts every day for five lunch periods. The staff also cooked for banquets and special occasions. Baldwin High School students were lucky to have such appetizing and healthful meals served to them and owe much to these cafeteria workers.

This is the beginning of the end . . .

Senior year, a memorable time in our school life, will be remembered by all of us for many different reasons. The little intimate moments that brought us closer together and the big exciting events will linger in our memories. We will never forget Senior Recognition night . . . dancing to the dreamy music at the Christmas Dance . . . senior assemblies! . . . the class party . . . "Holiday for Lovers," our class play . . . the Prom . . . the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance." Yes, these were wonderful. But there were times of sadness too, realizing we would soon be leaving our friends and that fun which we all loved. Full realization of the responsibilities of what lies ahead for each of us became apparent as we prepared for graduation. With a smile on our lips and tears in our eyes, we received our diplomas, knowing the year 1959 climaxed our happiest years at Baldwin.

Over the horizon -- seniority

The junior class, under the sponsorship of Mr. Bartos, had a very rewarding and enjoyable year. The special event of the year was the distribution of class rings. At last the juniors really belonged! The junior class play was the next event on the calendar. Under the capable assistance of Mr. Greiner, the talented cast presented "The Night of January 16th," a play which will long remain in the memories of the eleventh graders. The class was fortunate to have had the opportunity to participate in two "firsts" of Baldwin—the girls in the Heatherettes and the boys on the wrestling team. At the conclusion of the year, the class party was held and the traditional presentation of the key by the senior class reminded the juniors of the responsibilities of the coming year and provided an exciting climax to an eventful one.

This past school year has been a memorable experience for all the tenth graders. It is the time when they are stepping out of the young and awkward days into the glorious life of a high-school student. By joining many of the extra-curricular activities open to them this year for the first time, many sophomores got to see the other side of Baldwin and had the opportunity to meet more and more of the students from their huge class.

This was also the year for ordering class rings, the symbols of belonging, of the fascinating world of biology, of the intricacies of typing, and of the class party, the climax of a wonderful year. All these experiences have put their stamp on the sophomore class, the class that will lead Baldwin to better things, the class of 1961.

Memories are our most important product

The 1959 BALTHI was presented by the members of the BALTHI staff to all the students and faculty of Baldwin High School. This staff worked many long hours under the guidance of Miss Kirkland and Mr. Michael. The co-editors, Joyce Sieber and Billie Dee McIlroy, and the section editors spent part of their summer vacation and the early months of this school year planning pages of the book. Then came the actual work of taking, measuring, and naming pictures and writing copy. We hope that this book will remind you of the many memories of this past year.

The Purbalite

Our school newspaper had another successful year. The paper was published by students assisted by Mr. Greiner, their advisor. Students flocked to buy a copy of each of the six issues. They thoroughly enjoyed it, for it contained announcements about clubs, current happenings around school, humorous sketches, novelties, and articles about our athletic teams. The editors and staff members have worked hard this year to bring pleasure to everyone.

Student Senate

Everyone had his say

The Student Senate, sponsored by Mr. Zingle, was the governmental body of the school. Each homeroom elected a representative and an alternate to present their suggestions concerning matters of interest to our school and its students. One of the annual duties of the Senate is to help newcomers become acquainted with Baldwin. This is accomplished by the publication of the handbook which contains general rules, activities, curriculum, and cheers.

Committees were chosen from the Senate to sell tickets at the home basketball games and the dances which followed on Friday nights.

This year the Student Senate sent a worthwhile contribution to the March of Dimes fund by conducting a beauty queen campaign. Every dime collected indicated a vote for one of the six semi-finalists. The winner, Ann Furman, then appeared on WTAE-TV with winners from other schools in the Pittsburgh area.

On Senior Class Day, the Senate climaxed a successful year with the presentation of activity awards to the seniors who had attained the required number of points by their outstanding participation in extra-curricular activities.

This club is very ably guided by Mr. Butler, our speech teacher, and Mr. Klein, the boy's counselor. The membership was made-up of students from ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades. On Saturdays these members participated in the Student Congress and inter-scholastic competitions. These tournaments lasted all day and were held in the various schools which were participating in the competition.

Many afternoons after school were spent in preparing the speeches in the various categories, debates, and methods of delivering them. Besides learning the different methods of speech delivery, the members had to learn how and where to stand and what to do with their hands and eyes.

This year's club was very active. Its members participated in as many tournaments as was possible. Due to their avid participation and hard work, the members were greatly rewarded. Bill Cutler was elected the outstanding speaker at the National Convention. He also was elected Speaker of the House. Craig Seifert, too, brought an honor back to our school from the Student Congress. Many other members earned high placements.

Bill Cutler tried fervently to convince the audience that he was right.

Always willing to serve

Key Club

The best days of school brought lots of work along with a feeling of relief.

Carl Beaudet, Bruce Clark

The Key Club, a familiar club around Baldwin, has again had another successful year under the able guidance of Mr. Gillooly, faculty advisor, and Mr. Snodgrass, the Kiwanis advisor. This club is primarily a service club with a membership of 25 boys who have been chosen for their scholastic work, faculty co-operation, and ability to work.

In accordance with its motto "To Serve," the Key Club has held many worth-while projects. Some of them were: painting the school parking lot, holding locker cleanups, car washes, helping the band with its District Band Festival, and school drives. To top all these projects the boys collected all of the school's books at the end of the year and stacked them in various book rooms. By doing this, the Key Club saved the custodians many hours of work of having to store the books themselves. Their meetings were held on Wednesday evenings, at the high school, where the plans for their many beneficial projects were made.

Books, books, and more books

The Library Club was made up of girls who were willing to donate their study halls to work in the school library. Under the sponsorship of Miss Josephine Minetti, the school librarian, these "junior librarians" were taught the duties that made our library run. Their duties included such things as stamping out books, charging for late books, shelving books, plus many other odd jobs around the library. After the new furniture arrived this fall, the members had the additional job of transferring the books from the temporary storage space in the periodical room to the new shelves in the main room.

Library Club

The library is able to purchase many new books with money collected by fines.

Latin Club

The Latin Club was composed of students enrolled in first and second year Latin. The club was assisted by their sponsor, Miss Eva Rackley. The organization of a Latin Honor Group and the tutoring of poor Latin students brought more understanding of the ancient language. The club entered projects in the annual Latin festival at the Buhl Planetarium, representing Latin entertainment, dress, transportation, and weapons.

Future Teachers of America

The Betkins Chapter of the Future Teachers of America was under the able direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Jenkins. It gave members an opportunity to learn more about their chosen profession and aided the teachers. F.T.A. members assisted homeroom teachers with opening exercises, taking attendance every morning, statebooks, and checking papers. Members were given the opportunity to visit and teach the class of their choice.

One of the new clubs formed this year was the Biology Club. It was formed to give special instruction to those students who were going into biological science. By dividing the club into groups, Mrs. Gibbon was able to provide education in the different fields of biology. The club members received special instructions in bacteriology, blood typing, and histology. While one group was learning to take blood tests, the other worked with bacteria. Then the first group worked with bacteria and the second took blood tests. All who attended the meetings and group activities profited greatly.

Another of the newly formed clubs was the Math Club, with Mr. Huslak as its sponsor. During the meetings, the members learned how to work a variety of problems in different types of mathematics and to enjoy the challenge they presented. Lectures, given by the teachers at Baldwin and guest speakers, concerning sections of higher mathematics, gave a broader and more interesting scope to this field. This club has become an inspiration to those who enjoy math either as a hobby or plan to go on in higher mathematics and science in college.

T. Whitsett, R. Reiland, J. Kimball, J. Boggs

Many exasperating class periods were spent explaining the laws of nature to these confused students.

Science Club

The Science Club plunged enthusiastically into the new school year with numerous ideas. Mr. Bartos sponsored this energetic group, and he aided them in planning the many activities in which they participated. Membership was available to any tenth, eleventh, or twelfth graders taking a science course who were willing to stay after school for meetings.

There was something offered for everybody interested in every kind of science. Movies about the blood, the diesel engine, and "Our Mr. Sun" were shown. To demonstrate science in every day living, experiments were made with water and light waves, and early in the year the members of the Science Club attended a lecture about engineering at Mellon Institute.

The climax of this year's activities for the club was the Science Fair held at the school on March 18, 1959. This was the first year that anything of that sort had been done at Baldwin and the members were justly proud of their accomplishments. On the night of open house, three members were present in each science room to explain the intricacies of the projects and to show the new science wing to the visitors. This club was definitely an asset to Baldwin.

Y-Teens is one of the largest organizations in Baldwin High School. It is divided into four groups of girls: freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Each group has different sponsors and activities. Miss Bode sponsors the freshmen group; Mrs. Enlow, the sophomores; and Miss Pensom, the juniors and seniors. The main purpose of Y-Teens is to build well-rounded women by working together to help others. This was done through the different service projects the four groups worked on together or individually. The club was composed of those girls who were willing to give their time and something of themselves to its various activities. The regular business meetings were held after school, usually twice a month. After all of the plans were made, refreshments were served. Besides the many service projects, the Y-Teens also had banquets and parties for their own enjoyment. Bowling and roller skating were two activities which everyone always enjoyed. This year the senior group sold "Li'l Herbie" dogs. They were purple with white ears and a white "B" on their sides. Many Baldwin students used them for mascots. As these girls leave Baldwin they will always remember the fun and fellowship they had in Y-Teens.

Hi-Y

The Hi-Y was organized and maintained to build and uphold the high moral standards taught by the Young Men's Christian Association.

Under the very capable direction of Mr. Karpa and The South Hills Community Y.M.-C.A., it participated in two top grade basketball leagues last winter, giving each of its thirty three active members the opportunity of playing basketball for an organized team. Both teams, playing on Saturdays, fared very well in their respective leagues. Hi-Y members represented each of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes in all the worthy and useful projects that they undertook.

Varsity Lettermen

The symbol of athletic strength was shown at Baldwin High School by the Varsity Lettermen. The membership of this club is composed of those boys who have earned a letter in some athletic sport. These boys can be recognized anywhere by their purple and white varsity jackets with Baldwin written on the back. Mr. Crevar, the school athletic advisor, sponsored this group. He helped provide recognition for these boys and promoted sportsman-like ideals. This club was well represented by the boys outstanding athletic ability in football, basketball, track, baseball, golf, wrestling, and cross country.

Leaders Club

The Leaders Club, comprised of forty-four senior girls, assist Miss Mullin and Miss Watt with their gym classes and in intramurals act as referees. The girls teach others the fundamentals of physical education while they are learning leadership and responsibilities which prepare them for the future. At the end of the year a "Leader of the Year" is chosen for her ability.

Service Club

Under the direction of Miss Mullin, the Service Club aids the gym teachers and the leaders. Some keep score and time during gym classes while others keep the locker room clean and return lost objects to the lost and found department. This gives the girls a chance to earn points and prepares them for the Leaders Club while it teaches them co-operation.

There was a club for everyone

Future Homemakers of America

A new club was begun this year to extend the understanding of homemaking. The club was open to girls in all grades. The main objective of the F.H.A. was to inspire members to become interested in home-care and to do service projects. Over the Christmas vacation the girls took toys to St. Paul's Orphanage to brighten the children's holiday. The club was sponsored by Miss Harris and Miss Malone.

Chess Club

Chess, a new and challenging interest, entered the realm of activities last fall. The club was formed under the guidance of Mr. Fazio and the sponsorship of the Y.M.C.A.

Brains replaced brawn as our four graduated teams manipulated their kings, queens, pawns, rooks, knights, and bishops across the chess boards. These teams found themselves in stiff competition with eight high schools from the Greater Pittsburgh Area who were veterans at the game.

Peanuts! Popcorn! Candy!

Braving all kinds of weather, the Concessions Squad was right there at the home football games selling candy, potato chips, popcorn, pop, coffee, hotdogs, and programs. The group was made up of the Speech and Debate Club members and the Balhi Staff. The former, with the help of Mr. H. J. Klein, solicited for advertisements for the programs, obtained the correct line-ups, and then sold the programs at the games. Under the guidance of Miss Elizabeth Kirkland, the Balhi Staff was responsible for the refreshments, their jobs being to order concessions, stock the trailer and two huts, and sell during the games.

Friday nights were the least of their troubles. On Monday, after school, an inventory had to be made of the stock on hand so that orders could be put in on Wednesday. While the other students were enjoying the pep rallies, the squad was down on the field setting up the trailers, chipping ice, and generally getting things ready for the evening.

This year, among other things, hotdogs were sold to the hungry crowds and coffee, made by Mrs. Pastorius in the cafeteria, was available to warm the spectators and many came back for seconds and thirds. Certainly our games were made much more enjoyable by the food served by this excellent squad.

Getting things ready for the game were: D. Viscount, R. Althoff, G. Shaw, P. Breza.

Boys' Pep Club

The Boys' Pep Club was a new, but definitely a welcomed club, at Baldwin. Organized with the help of Mr. Neuhard, the main aim of the club was to further school spirit throughout the 1958-59 school year. Planning Senior Recognition was a difficult job, but it was successfully arranged by the Boys' Pep Club. Meetings were held every Wednesday after school to plan skits at pep assemblies and they out-did themselves on the hula dancers from Hawaii. Although they had no sweaters, they were dressed uniformly in white shirts and dark pants. For their short existence, they have done a remarkable job of furthering school spirit.

Girls' Pep Club

The Girls' Pep Club sponsored by Miss Watt created enthusiastic spirit toward the Baldwin Highlander teams. The basis for selections of girls for pep club was attitude, participation in school activities, and school spirit. These girls were readily spotted in their pep hats, white pep club sweaters with the purple "B" on the front, dark skirts, and purple and white pompoms. The highlight of the club's activities was the crowning of the pep queen and her two attendants, who led the dance at Senior Recognition. These faithful girls were greatly appreciated at our many sports activities while trying diligently to cheer the team on to victory.

The newly organized freshmen newspaper, "Highlander Hi-Lites," was sponsored by Miss Bozic, and its main objective was to get the ninth-graders in print. Even the upper classmen took notice of the art work, cartoons, stories, and poems originated by our talented freshmen. Aside from proofreading by Miss Bozic, art help from Mrs. Neuhard, and typing by Miss Conte, the "frosh" ran this newspaper by themselves. The articles were written, arranged, and mimeographed by the staff.

Editorship of this paper was not constant. Only a reporter who had done outstanding work was selected for this position and a new editor was chosen for each issue.

This year a new club, the Science Club, was started for the ninth graders. Under the guidance of Mr. DiGuilio, the members held their meetings on the first Monday of each month. Along with this one meeting each month, the Ninth Grade Science Club was invited to many of the Senior Science Club meetings, usually when there was a movie or a guest speaker.

The main reason for the formation of this club was to further the art appreciation of the ninth graders. It gave them a chance to display their creative talents through the P.M.E.A. Festival where they made center pieces for the tables, various Christmas projects, and art publicity for the ninth grade newspaper. The club was begun by efforts put forth by their sponsor, Mrs. Neuhard.

Our Teachers' Helpers

The Clerical Workers Club was one of the newer clubs at Baldwin. However, it has already proved its usefulness and efficiency. This club was sponsored by Miss Meryl Rust. Each member was a secretary to one of the teachers and did all the necessary typing, mimeographing, and other work required by the teacher. The members were commercial students. Through this club, they received practice which will help them during the future in the business world.

The Secretarial Service Club was sponsored by Miss Meryl Rust. It was composed of the senior girls taking the secretarial course. This club had two very worth-while purposes. The first was to give the members experience for future office work. The second was to provide each teacher with a secretary to do his typing, mimeographing, and all other secretarial work. Miss Rust was assisted by her office manager, Marlene Bonetti, and several assistant managers.

Ushers Club

The Ushers Club, one of the newly organized clubs, was under the direction of Miss Smith. The members ushered at all of our school programs and students of all four grades were encouraged to join. Dark skirts or trousers, white blouses, and an identifying badge were the required dress for all activities.

Membership in the Junior Red Cross was open to students from all grades. Its purpose was to perform on four levels of service. Aided by Mrs. Corbett, their service projects were on the international, national, community, and school levels. By working together on projects, members learned to give time to bring pleasure to others.

Decorating Club

The Decorating Club, comprised of nine boys, was supervised by Mr. Henkowsky. Their work was centered around constructing various props and decorating our new gym for special dances. After the decorations were completed, the work of these boys was not finished. They spent many Saturdays taking down the decorations which brought such joy and enchantment the night before. These boys deserve a vote of thanks for all of their hard work and co-operation. We feel that without their help our dances would not have been such a big success.

Art Club

In the past two years the Art Club, under the direction of Mr. Henkowsky, has become known and appreciated throughout Baldwin. This club is a service organization which aids teachers and school clubs. Each member was assigned a bulletin board which he was responsible for decorating all year. During special holidays these bulletin boards were decorated with clever paper ornaments. Cheer was added to the sports seasons by signs of encouragement in the halls and gym. Although a certain amount of art ability is necessary to be in the art club, the greatest requirement is willingness to work and getting along with others.

Sound Squad

The men behind the scenes

Under the expert guidance of Mr. Sullivan, the Stage Crew performed a variety of duties during the past year. Its members were the unseen hands which operated and controlled the lighting and sound equipment during our assembly programs. The major duty of this crew was the erection of the stage settings for the Christmas and Easter programs, the senior and junior class plays, and the band and choral concerts. Throughout the year these boys proved that they are indeed an indispensable part of our activities.

The Sound Squad, ably supervised by Mr. Waterman, performed an important service for Baldwin's students and teachers alike. The squad, composed of eighteen boys, was responsible for the operation and maintenance of our school's projection and sound equipment. Due to the work of these boys, our classroom learning was supplemented by interesting visual and audio aids. They showed the film of our Highlander Marching Band at the band concert. The boys on the squad were also responsible for the projection of films at the assemblies this year.

The Junior Class presented a drama titled, "The Night of January 16th." Under the guidance of Mr. Greiner, the faculty director, and Deirdre Russell and Jo Ann Early, the student directors, the play was a great success. Many long hours of grueling practice were spent in the evenings after school by the members of the cast, the prompters, and the student directors.

A dignified courtroom in New York City was the setting of the entire play. Presiding over the court was the judge, David Berlin. Assisting him was the defense attorney, Dick Frye, and the prosecuting attorney, Don Mitchell. Karen Andre, Sandra Threnhauser, was being tried for the murder of Mr. Faulkner. On November 20th and 21st the jury of twelve, picked from the audience, found Miss Andre not guilty.

Europe came to Baldwin

The senior class presented a romantic comedy about the Dean family—Father, Dan McGinnis; Mother, Leah Garland; and their youngest daughter Betsy, played by Carole Pangle. Mr. Greiner, the faculty advisor, chose the play and then turned it over to the student directors, Judy Hassler and Rosemary Szeman, and together they produced Ronald Alexander's, "Holiday for Lovers."

This gay carefree story opens in New York as Bob and Mary are about to set off for Europe to visit their eldest daughter Meg, June Helmers. Betsy envies her sister until she falls in love with Paul, a handsome painter, portrayed expertly by Don Fanzo. All kinds of accidents happen as the Deans travel through Europe speaking little French and even less Spanish and finally, after a series of engagements and many misinterpretations, Mr. Dean sends his daughters off to be married with his blessing and falls in love with his wife all over again.

Music

Music adds culture to our lives.

Baldwin High School

The sixty-four playing members, seven majorettes, eight Highlanders, and three pipers who made up the Highlander Marching Band, had one of their finest seasons this year. They attended all the football games as well as three band shows at Clairton, Belle Vernon, and Wilkinsburg. The band began working for football season two weeks before school started. With precision drilling and dancing, it delighted crowds everywhere it went.

One of the highlights of the marching season was the use of white helmets. The Highlanders have the distinction of being the first band in the area to don "battle" helmets and audiences everywhere were impressed with their gleaming appearance. Credit must be given to the three band managers for keeping the helmets and uniforms shipshape.

Highlander Band

In January, the Highlander Band was host to the Pennsylvania Music Educators Association's Western District Band. Fifteen of the best Highlander musicians were playing members of the District Band.

The concert season got into full swing as soon as the football season was over. The Highlander Concert Band, consisting of eighty-four playing members, presented an outstanding mid-year concert of light popular music. In April the band again entertained us with a light classical concert. The Highlander band proved that it was as fine a playing group as it was a marching unit in these two concerts. The Baldwin High School Highlander Band can be proud of the admirable job it did this year.

Betsy can't seem to catch the intricate step performed by other members of the band.

Individual instruction proved to be beneficial.

The band practices

Everyone was thirsty after three hours of practicing in the hot mid-morning sun.

Our pipers added the final touch to make the Highlander Band one of the finest marching bands in the state.

The great success of the District Band was due largely to the planning of Mr. McIlroy and the conducting of Al G. Wright, of Purdue University.

The high caliber of music played by the band necessitated individual instruction.

The Freshmen Band, trained by Mr. McIlroy, was reorganized this year. Membership consisted of thirty-one ninth grade students, who practiced in the band room after school on Mondays. They made their first formal appearance at the mid-year concert.

Orchestra

The orchestra was under the direction of Mr. Luncher. This is the first year for a complete orchestra. It consisted of a string section and outstanding instrumentalists of the band. The orchestra rehearsed after school and performed at class plays and assemblies.

Lovely voices filled the air

The Girls' Glee Club

The largest organization in the Choral Department of Baldwin is the Girls' Glee Club. The members are chosen in special tryouts according to their ability to understand music, and their voice quality. Two periods a week are given up by each girl for separate group rehearsals. Several weeks before their performances many combined rehearsals were held, and the excellent performances at the Christmas Program and the Spring Concert proved that the hard work was rewarding.

Mr. Shalley, Baldwin's choral director, had the task of selecting music of great variety that would be enjoyable to everyone, and he had the satisfaction of directing this fine musical group. Each girl had the pleasure of being a vital part of a superior group, a pleasure that will be among her treasured memories of Baldwin.

Mr. Shalley points out a note pattern to Barb, Carol, Annette, and Gwen.

The Boys' Glee Club

A lot of time and hard work were put together by Mr. Shalley and the boys to produce one of the finest Boys' Glee Clubs that has ever sung at Baldwin. Proudly wearing their cherished white jackets, they displayed their musical talents at school assemblies, the Christmas Program, and the annual Spring Concert. To hear this group was truly a rewarding and enjoyable experience, and the boys who were members of this organization can justly be proud of their accomplishments.

Baldwin's 1959 Highlander Choir practiced long and hard to master the skills taught them by Mr. Shalley, their able director. It all proved worth-while when the eighty-five talented vocalists blended their voices to create the music which captivated their audience.

Their first appearance this year was at Heinz Chapel. Then they sang for us in the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs at school. For the second year the choir entered the Forensic Contest where they competed against the choirs of other schools in this area. They sang "The King Is Knocking" and "Son of Man Be Free" in the contest. The Easter program was beautiful and inspiring as the choir again proved that their labors were not in vain. Last, but not least, was the Spring Concert when the usual purple and white robes were laid aside for formals and white dinner jackets. The program ended with the beautiful theme songs of the Highlander Choir, "A Hundred Pipers" and "Annie Laurie."

The Highlander Choir has always been an outstanding musical group at Baldwin and this year's choir has certainly met the standards that have been set for it in the years past.

This was the second year for the existence of the Ninth Grade Chorus under the capable direction of Mr. Scandrol. It was made up of two choruses. The first was the Select Chorus composed of one hundred two mixed voices which performed at the Christmas program. The other group was the Forensic Chorus which took part in the Forensic Contest for junior high choruses. The membership of this group was ninety-two voices. The Select and Forensic choruses performed at the Ninth Grade Spring Concert, held in May, along with the Ninth Grade Band. Through these groups students were able to gain valuable experience before entering senior high choral groups.

Many long hours were spent practicing pitch and tone control. If you happened to walk in on one of the rehearsals you might have heard them singing "All Through the Night," "Bali Ha'i," or "In the Still of the Night" in preparation for the Spring Concert.

B - A - L - D — Win, Win, Win!

The Baldwin Highlanders, under the guidance of Coach Al Crevar and assistant coaches—Banky, Gillooly, and Fritsch—practiced hard throughout the summer and fall to get in shape for the football season.

In their first game, they beat a highly touted Brookfield, Ohio team. Behind Melani's marvelous running and two touchdowns scored by Thomas, Baldwin won an exciting game, 26-25.

Next to visit the Highlanders was Stowe which was literally driven out of the stadium, 45-0. Everybody took a turn in scoring for Baldwin. Thomas, Melani, Roehenbach, and Snodgrass had two touchdowns each.

Now it was Baldwin's turn to travel and they played Bethel, their first "AA" team. With Lehner mixing up his plays well, Melani scoring two touchdowns, and Thomas, Rauch, and Fess scoring one each, the Highlanders easily outpointed their opponents, 33-6.

Again back at the stadium, Baldwin met their arch rival, Carrick. In spite of the fact that Carrick scored first, some fine running by Smith, Melani, Thomas, Rauch, and Rockenbach enabled the Highlanders to run up their highest point total, 54-24.

Football

Coaches: A. Crevar, J. Gillooly, W. Fritsch, G. Banky.

In their second "AA" game, the Highlanders met a very fine Uniontown team. Even though they put up a tough battle, one of their best of the season, Uniontown eventually went on to victory, 13-0.

For the second time in the season, Baldwin traveled, this time to Munhall. The Highlanders were leading, 13-10, with only a few minutes to go when Munhall scored and kicked the extra point, thus winning, 17-13.

With Melani and Rauch not even dressing for the game, and a few other key injuries, Baldwin lost to a superior West View team, 28-7.

The Highlanders were excited for this game. They played neck and neck in the first half, but Mt. Lebanon, with a few breaks, went on to victory, 34-7.

This being Baldwin's last game, the team wanted to win if at all possible. Still hit hard with injuries, the Highlanders could not hold back Washington and lost, 26-19.

In every game the Highlanders provided the fans with interesting and exciting football. They had a very unusual season, winning their first four games and losing the remaining five. Still, it was a team of which Baldwin should be proud.

Summer practice was a lot of hard work but it was necessary to be in shape for the season.

Along with the coaches, managers are important in the running of a smooth team. During practice they have to be everywhere at once—running errands, passing or retrieving balls, and making sure the equipment is put in place. When timeouts are called during games, they run onto the field with water and other supplies and assist players who are injured. They are the most trusted individuals on the team since they hold many valuables when the boys practice and are in charge of all the equipment.

Coached by Mr. Mazzocco and Mr. Karp, the junior high football team, made up of ninth graders, practiced every night after school, using some of the plays of the senior varsity. Their games were played in the afternoon on school days.

They played a tough schedule, meeting some of the junior high teams of other schools, playing them either at home or away. Since the boys received excellent coaching and much needed experience, they look forward to making the varsity next fall.

Basketball

This year the Highlanders entered a much tougher section, competing against such teams as Homestead, McKeesport, Duquesne and Munhall. They finished fifth in the section which was composed of eight teams.

The coaches, Mr. Banky and Mr. Gillooly spent much time after school discussing new offense and defense maneuvers. Instead of depending on the short shots for scoring, since they lacked height, more emphasis was placed on the long shots. On defense they used a full court press which enabled them to set up many fast breaks. Several exhibition games were played so that the players and coaches were able to correct mistakes arising out of the new plays before the section competition began.

Even though they had a rough season, every game played by the Highlanders, whether at home or away, was filled with thrilling action and excitement. With the closing of the season four seniors, Roger Smith, Jerry Bazin, Jim Krah and Chuck Varney played their last game.

Coach Banky attended Homestead High School and went to St. Francis of Loretto College on a basketball scholarship. Since becoming head coach four years ago, his teams have won two section titles, finished second, and, this year, fifth.

J. Gillooly

Mr. Gillooly graduated from Munhall and attended Duquesne on a football scholarship. Even though football is his first sport, he has coached junior varsity basketball for eight years.

Junior Varsity

The Junior Varsity Basketball team, coached by Mr. Gillooly, was made up of tenth and eleventh graders. Its main purpose was to provide experience for the boys coming up through the ranks. By practicing every night after school and playing the varsity, they gained valuable experience.

Because the senior team changed to a harder section, the J.V.'s also met tougher opponents. They played in the preliminary game preceeding the varsity event and had a successful season.

Cheerleaders

We'll make the noise

Our cheerleaders received almost as many cheers as the players when they bounced onto the field or floor. Besides screaming themselves hoarse at the football and basketball games, our squad took the floor at the weekly pep rallies during football season.

Miss Watt, advisor of this more than capable group, has succeeded in molding thirteen delightful girls into energetic and lively cheerleaders who stimulated the crowds and helped cheer our teams to victory.

Emerging from the freshman class are five peppy junior high cheerleaders who add sparkle and cheer to the games played by the freshmen teams. They are potential prospects for Miss Watt's superb squad.

Jerry, Bob, and Jim get in some extra practice before the season starts.

A new coach, Mr. Fritsch, led the 1959 Highlander baseball team. Since only two lettermen returned, Coach Fritsch had to determine the majority of the positions after stiff competition among the athletes. The 1959 team worked hard throughout the spring so that they were able to face strong opponents such as Clairton, McKeesport, Duquesne, and Munhall.

The team had a difficult time following in the footsteps of the 1958 Highlanders, who ran up a very fine season record of seven wins and three losses.

To strengthen the team, Lehner and Susan threw the discus, pole vaulter, Palone, and board jumper, Wallace, hit the sawdust while Llewellyn and Snodgrass jumped the hurdles.

Cross Country

With Coach Dickinson at the helm, a cross country team joined Baldwin's athletic department. This group functioned during the fall.

Cross country is scored by assigning a corresponding number of points in the order in which a man finishes. When the points are totaled, the team with the lowest number of points is the winner.

Golf

With four of the five members of last year's team returning, the Highlander's golf team, under head coach Mazzocco, seemed to be headed for another fine season, even better than last year's 7 and 3 record.

The returning lettermen, Jim Harper, Rich Cecere, Don McCreary, and Steve Abbey practiced regularly after school at South Park. They looked forward to winning the section title by beating such teams as Bethel, Mt. Lebanon, Centerville, and Canonsburg.

Wrestling

Under the direction of Mr. Neuhard, a new sport, wrestling, was added this year. Since this was the first year and the boys had to get experience, only freshmen, sophomores, and juniors made up the team. They practiced every night after school during the winter months.

At first no meets were scheduled, but after watching the boys practice, Coach Neuhard decided to let them participate in meets. They did very well, finishing with a 5 and 3 record.

APPRECIATION

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to those whose advice has been invaluable: Mr. Sprankle of Capitol Engraving Company; Mr. Hoover of Kurtz Bros., who helped with printing and selection of covers; and Mr. Agate and Mr. Phillips of Valley Studios. We also appreciate the financial support extended by the business patrons and the personal patrons, friends of the student body.
